

Debbie has been associated with many great blues masters, starting with the late, great Johnny Shines. She has since worked with or performed alongside Jerry "Boogie"

McCain, James Peterson, Kenny Neal and many more, as well as touring in the US playing guitar with Lil' Jimmy Reed, Eddie Kirkland and Sam Lay. She has toured Europe with Little Whitt and Big Bo, and Willie King and the Liberators. Bond has regularly featured in showcases of Alabama blues women along with artists such as Carrolaine Shines, B. J. Miller, Shar Baby and Sweet Claudette.

Bond is a blues activists and cofounder of the Alabama Blues Project, an award-winning blues education non-profit (www.alabamablues.org).

Singer, guitar player and songwriter Debbie Bond has been paying her dues to play the blues in the Alabama backwoods for over 30 years, working extensively with many blues greats such as Johnny Shines, Willie King and Eddie Kirkland.

Her repertoire features a soulful mix of bluesy originals and classic covers. Although Debbie has been compared to Maria Muldair, Janis Joplin and Bonnie Raitt, she has her own unique sound and original style!

WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

"A mouthpiece for sultry, Southern charm and whimsical musical conversation, Debbie Bond gets her heart tangled up in an intimate mess of backwoods Alabama soul."

- Living Blues Magazine

"The founder of the Alabama Blues Project gives it her all and is at the top of her game."

- Big City Rhythm and Blues

"In a world sadly short of good blues women, Debbie is a real find! Debbie is a star . . . I can't wait to see her again."
